ANT100: The science of the human

How can this guide help me?

The purpose of this guide is to answer the most frequently asked questions about the library research you need to do for your ANT100 assignment.

Still have questions? You have options!

You can:

- contact the librarian for the class (please put ANT100 in the subject line):
  - Rakija Houman
- or contact the Library through chat, phone or in person.
- or check out the more general Library FAQs.

Do I need to use the Library for my research?

You can find scholarly articles on Google. You might run into a couple of problems, though:

1. You may be asked to pay for the articles you find — and articles are not cheap.
